10. Pray for the persecuted church – CHRISTIAN VULNERABILITY ESCALATES AGAIN IN TURKEY On Sunday 24 June Turkish citizens at home and abroad will vote to elect a president and a parliament. There is every sign that these elections will bring neither stability to the nation nor security to Turkey’s persecuted ethnic-religious minorities. In recent years, government-sanctioned anti-Christian and anti-ethnic-religious minority hate speech has soared to extreme levels. Erdogan has even referred to Turkish Armenians as ‘terrorist separatists’, thereby resurrecting the anti-Armenian, anti-Christian propaganda that fuelled the Armenian Genocide of 1915. A week ago he ominously warned that Austria shutting foreign-funded hardline mosques in Vienna could trigger a war between ‘cross and crescent’ for which Austria’s Chancellor Kruz would (supposedly) be responsible. Turkey is a tinderbox. Its Christians are exceedingly vulnerable. Unfinished business ever looms. Consequently, we must remain vigilant and ever prayerful.
